≡ NATIONAL GALLERY PRAGUE

The Publishing Department is a special-purpose facility administering National Gallery Prague's publishing activity in close cooperation with art historians, curators, lecturers, collections, and the Gallery's library. The department's expert output is determined by its specialist focus. Apart from traditional printed matter – exhibition catalogues, collection inventories, guides, professional journals, conference proceedings, artist monographs – we also publish specialist books about art and related fields (art theory and philosophy, museology, art history archives, etc.), books introducing the Gallery's collections, and children's books. Increased output by National Gallery staff (exhibitions, research, education, etc.) has also affected a substantial increase in the Department's book production over the past few years. Books are published in foreign-language mutations, making them suitable items for interlibrary publication exchange, and presenting the Gallery as a developed institution.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased from 400 million to 600 million.

It is not only the illiterate who are at risk of being left behind. The world's population is growing rapidly, and the number of people who are poor is increasing.

By the year 2025, the world's population is expected to reach 8 billion. In 2000, there were 6 billion people in the world.

At the same time, the number of people who are poor is increasing. In 2000, there were 1 billion people who were living on less than $1 a day.

By the year 2025, it is estimated that there will be 2 billion people who are living on less than $1 a day.

This is a serious problem. We need to find ways to help these people. We need to find ways to help the poor.
